You have unwittingly created an atmosphere wherein the smaller stations that once provided this service to the public simply do not exist anymore. This left only the large "groups" whose only focus is the bottom line. They have very little concern over public service or safety. In our market, we used to have these reports as well as other live on time reports (traffic, etc.) now we have virtually nothing unless it is called in by the general public. Please let SAT radio (XM)) grow and mature on its own without "divine" intervention. We should harken back to the early days of radio and allow some pioneers to be born!
